

Some of the Climate Skeptics' values and hot buttons

A sense of being threatened by the world and life in society today, but they feel that the real threats are socio-economic ...

... rather than ecological. They just don't believe the hype or refuse to believe it. Nearly non-existent sensitivity or involvement on the social front: looking out for number one comes first!

Great conservatism. They cling to a traditionalistic view of life when times were simpler and less threatening
