

Some values and hot buttons of the people who fantasize about joining the holy war in the Middle East!

Feeling socially excluded. Believing that they have no place in society. Difficulty finding a purpose or meaning in life. Not feeling in control of their lives.

A need to boost their social status, for themselves and in the eyes of others. Looking for goals and challenges to bolster their flagging self-esteem. But also a conviction that they have great potential that is being blocked and unrecognized by society and others around them.

A retreat to very conservative values. An attempt to boost their social status and give meaning to their lives by adopting the roles of traditional society.

Openness to the world. A desire to go other places and be recognized.
